

ARES Shipyard, which has raised its profile as a result of a number of successful exports, and German Thyssenkrupp Marine Systems GmbH (TKMS) inked a long-term partnership agreement in Hamburg on September 7. Under the agreement, the two companies will join forces in programmes for

ARES Shipyard and Thyssenkrupp Consolidate Cooperation with New Agreement

the design and construction of naval platforms using state-of-the-art technologies, and will work towards development of international business, with particular focus on both the military and civilian fields in the African, European and the Middle Eastern markets. ARES Shipyard and TKMS were already cooperating in business development, as well as in the development of production technologies and infrastructure for exports to third countries. With the new agreement, the two companies take a major step towards consolidating their existing cooperation through a longterm partnership. ♦